has no money in its Plant Science Building. Yet I understand that the University wants this building very bad. I understand that all of the farm organizations want this building very bad but the main thing is that nobody knows where the money is coming from. Now the money for this Plant Science Building, if this amendment was adopted, would simply state that the people who are the direct recipients, not those that are in...affected by the second and third handling, but those people like myself who will raise more corn, more wheat, more beans because this Plant Science Building is built and because we have improved the varieties. Now if these people don't want to assume their responsibility for this, then fine and dandy. We will just drop it by the wayside. All I am suggesting is that a half a penny a bushel on what you raise, which would be insignificant to the value that you are going to receive over the next ten or fifteen or twenty years, and if you don't want to do it, I certainly don't want to offer and have you folks do something that the people back home don't want. But it is not in the budget of either the Governor or our Committee, so the best thing we can do is if there is no debate on it...I say, let's just give it a vote, and if it gets no votes, you haven't hurt me one bit. Thank you, eversomuch.

PRESIDENT: Senator George.

SENATOR GEORGE: Mr. President, are we speaking to the Keyes amendment. Mr. President, including Mr. President, I would like to have somebody listen to me.

PRESIDENT: The Chair is listening, Senator George, but I can't vote.

SENATOR GEORGE: Thank you, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT: Could we have a little more order. Thank you.

SENATOR GEORGE: I would support the Keyes amendment but only on the condition that we apply that to everybody. Why should we pick out the farmer, that the farmer pays for specific building at the University here in Lincoln. I would have nothing against it, if he would go back to the Medieval Guild system, and if the lawyers pay for the new Law School, and the medical doctors pay for the Medical Center in Omaha. Then I think the farmers should pay for that new Plant Science Building. That would be quite just, but now the Keyes amendment just singles out just only one group and that group, of course, the farmers belong to the general taxpayers and they have also paid for the other buildings in the medical center and for the law schools. I don't see any reason why they now should be singled out and just pay for themselves for the Plant Science Building, which obviously is to the benefit of all people in Nebraska, and, therefore, in this shape and form, I would have to be against the Keyes amendment.

CLERK: Mr. President, a motion to amend on the desk.

PRESIDENT: Read the motion.

CLERK: To amend the Keyes motion to add the new language, All cost of the operation of the College of Law be assessed
